

Celebrations! Announcement Agreement

Welcome to Celebrations, the special Sunday section in the Richmond Times-Dispatch that's anchored by announcements about important milestones in the lives people like you: our readers, their families, friends and neighbors.

Wedding, engagement, golden anniversary and other important announcements are available in an array of sizes to fit any budget. For each option, photo sizes have been recommended, but we can resize your photo and adjust the text to take full advantage of the space in your selected announcement size. Online and in our office, we provide samples to help you see the possibilities.

Our Celebrations specialists will help you choose the best size for your announcement, and they'll gladly help you write your copy, if you'd like. That said, you tell your story best, so we encourage you to write your own announcement. For a more traditional announcement, we have step-by-step forms you can use. These are available in print and online.

By the way, your copy and photograph can be now be sent to us from the Celebrations link on our main Web site, inRich.com or via email to Celebrations@timesdispatch.com.

The bride wore a chiffon gown by Allen Schwartz. The gown had a low-cut back with cascading ruffles forming a light train. The straps sparkled with silver-toned bugle and round beads. The bride carried a bouquet of mini white calla lilies, white freesia, green cymbidium orchids and ivy.

The couple shared their special day with family and friends at a Hawaiian-themed dinner reception held at The Hilton Garden Inn. Mistress of the ceremony was the Reverend Obediah S. Stith. The bride is an Inbound Freight Analyst at Supervalu and the groom is a Risk Control/Security Manager at Supervalu. Both are minority small business owners. They will share their lives in Chesterfield County with two wonderful children, Obediah III and Myiah S. Stith.

Rolanda and Obediah would like to thank their family and friends for their continuous love, support and prayers.

DAN LOWERY & LEIGH HAMMACK

Singing beautiful music together

For Leigh Hammack, an impulsive decision to take a job as a dancer led to her meeting the love of her life. In 2003, Leigh, who had been dancing since she was 16, took a job as a customer service representative at the "VIBE" show at Kings Dominion. It was there that she met Dan Lowery. Dan, who had returned to Kings Dominion from Salt Lake City to sing in the same show. Leigh and Dan began dating that June and they've been making beautiful music together ever since.

The couple, who quickly became inseparable, worked together at Kings Dominion for two more years; Dan as the vocal captain and Leigh as the dance captain. Following this, they both took positions at Cavalier Telephone, and then together, made career moves to Media General. Leigh to the Richmond Times-Dispatch and Dan to inRich.com.

On April 19, they celebrated their love for each other at their wedding at Berea Baptist Church in Rockville, where Leigh's parents now make their home. The ceremony was officiated by the Reverend Sparky Pritchard, a longtime friend of the groom's family. In celebration of the upcoming wedding, a bridal shower and brunch was held in early March at Michelle's in the Hanover Tavern. The celebration was officiated by the bride's closest family members, was a joyous occasion filled with love and laughter. The ceremony, which included a live performance by the groom's band, was held at Crossings Resort in Hanover County, Va. The beautiful music at the ceremony and cocktail hour was played by Windemere Strings. GML Designs captured the essence of the simple yet elegant wedding with wonderful floral arrangements of Stargazer lilies, sweet peas and Bells of Ireland. The three-tiered cake, designed to resemble the bride's gown, was created by Cakes by Graham.

After returning from a sun-and-sea-filled romantic honeymoon in Aruba, they will share their first home together as husband and wife with their adorable cats, Blade and Roxy. Leigh and Dan express their love and appreciation to all their friends and family for being part of their wonderful wedding. They especially thank their parents for their unwavering support, and for giving them the wedding of their dreams.
